And finally, this 1685-5 was sold to me by a man named Bill Marquadt. It was an auction on Ebay, and in his listing's description he said the guitar was 'perfect'. He lied. Then he took my money and disappeared. Watch out for HIM!

John Budny looked at her and he told me the bracing is fractured on the inside and it would most likely, according to the MS, cost me about $800 or more to fix her. Perhaps she is a good luthier's challenge. I'm thinking $350 plus S&H:

I am also considering selling my beautiful 1976 1687, but she will not be cheap, haha. Look at her. She's PERFECT.
